ROCK 'N' ROLL RESCUE

AUCTION

PART 1

INVENTORY

Welcome to the first Rock 'n' Roll Rescue Auction. If you never heard of Rock 'n' Roll Rescue...it's a charity shop in Camden, London and is here to save the world one pound at a time. It was set up by Knox of The Vibrators and his fellow conspirators. Money from the charity gets divided between various local causes...a women's shelter, a food bank, dog's home etc.

As far as I am aware, the idea of an auction at the shop was first talked about with Johnny Deluxe in the autumn of 2016. Johnny passed away on Friday 21st July 2017 from a year-plus hell ride with small cell lung cancer. Nasty stuff.

Punk, pirate and general hell-raiser, Johnny was also a volunteer at Rock 'n' Roll Rescue and damn fine artist. He left screens of his work to the charity and we are very proud to carry on his tradition of the cathartic process of offending the masses with his designs.

Johnny's label was called YES!FUTURE! and when Rock 'n' Roll Rescue sells one of JD's original items of clothing / art etc. we use said name.

If it is something the minions at RRR HQ have printed and bastardised (using his work), it's called YES!FUTURRRE! Easy.

This début auction is a test of the water. There are many more items in the vaults of RRR to be sold in the future, so come and support this premier event and worthy cause. Get some collectable bargains and most of all, enjoy yourself!
